Personal Bio

Growing up, my mother always took note of my obsession for researching history. Seriously, at age seven if you were to ask me the volume of the Titanic measured in inches, I would tell you. What do I really think happened at the Library of Alexandra? Hold on because I've got a notebook. My obsession with understanding and educating myself on the things we didn't hear about much in school is something I pride myself on and have carried into adulthood. I always want to take the extra step.
