Personal Bio

Hello! My name is Ameera Mire and I am a college student who loves to model and act! I was always that child in front of the TV performing for my imaginary audience and the dream to act was one that started very early for me. I was always afraid that as a muslim woman I wouldn't be able to act, but I believe times are changing and I would love to be apart of the new wave. I'm very energetic and extremely hardworking which is evidence by the fact that I will be graduating college a year early!! I also enjoy putting together outfits in my free time and I see fashion as armor. My goals is to act in commercials and maybe one day work my way to being on a tv show. My family is extremely supportive and would love to see me succeed in this.
