Personal Bio

Jordan Twiss grew up in Minnesota where he spent his time playing football, writing, and helping any stray or wild animal he came across. From the little squirrel Napoleon that would eat of his hand, to the orphaned duckling he snuck into his third grade class. In the Navy, aside from swabbing the deck and tying knots, Jordan received training in Voice and Radio Broadcasting. Jordan's script writing and hosting contributed to USS Harry S. Truman's Russell Egnor award for its news program The Truman Show. His favorite activity underway was making creative video spots for the news program to entertain his shipmates. He enjoys bike riding with his wife and relaxing with his dog. Jordan is currently pursuing BAs in Theater and Writing (2025).
