Personal Bio

Callie Wing is a Texas-born American actress and model currently based in the Midwest of the United States. Callie has known she wanted to act and model since she was around 8 years old, and after spending part of her life living in Los Angeles, CA she knew she wanted to get a serious start in the film industry.

After moving near Minneapolis, MN, Callie booked her first extra role at 16, then was able to enroll in acting classes with Michelle Hutchinson. There, she learned how to express herself, not only as an actress but as an artist. She continued to pursue this passion by furthering her training and landing feature roles, as she graduated high school and is continuing her education at the University of St. Thomas (located in St. Paul, MN).

Callie is a National and World ranked cheerleader who loves to fly and tumble. She also loves spending time with her younger brother and dog when she is not doing creative activities such as painting or writing.

Callie has been referred to as a hard worker and problem solver who is driven and determined. As she works to gain more experience, her passion for the film industry only grows with every photo shoot, audition, and day on set she experiences.
